Order Bars from City Turkish Soldiers Crossing Over Into Thrace; Kemalists in City Disappointed

POLITICAL EXCITEMENT NOW AT ITS HEIGHT IN LONDON

Unionist Meeting Thursday Expected to Give Key to the Problem

CONSTANTINOPLE.—By the Associated Press.—The allied missions reached an unanimous decision today forbidding the Turkish gendarmes to enter Constantinople. The British navy has been ordered to stop all vessels bearing Turkish nationalist police.

The order produced keen disappointment among the exuberant Turkish population which made preparations on a vast scale to welcome the Kemalists.

Political Fever Soars
LONDON.—By the Associated Press.—British political fever has now reached its height and there is every indication that the maximum temperature will be maintained for some days. Everybody is guessing as to when the crisis will pass and what turn it will take, but the fever is as yet unrevealed and the future remains obscure.

Thursday's unionist meeting at the Carlton club which is expected to give the key to the problem.

To a foreigner suddenly taking his initial survey of the situation, perhaps one of the strangest features of the crisis would be the comparative absence from the columns of the principal daily newspapers of reports on the activities of the labor party, notwithstanding the announced intention of that party to put more than 400 candidates into the field.

Labor certainly is mentioned, but the space given the labor movement is trifling compared to that devoted to the doings of the two older parties. There is no reason to suppose, however, that this is reflecting the amount of importance attaching to the industrial attack on the various constituencies.

ELIMINATE WASTE TO MAKE PROFITS SPEAKER'S TOPIC

Hasbrouck Haynes, Efficiency Engineer, Speaks at C. of C. Luncheon

PROFITS OF FUTURE RESULT OF LESS WASTE, WORD GIVEN

J. R. Hirst of Highway Commission Next Speaker

ANOTHER successful noon luncheon was put across at the Chamber of Commerce Wednesday noon, when about 175 members of the organization gathered for the luncheon and for the after-luncheon address of Hasbrouck Haynes, president of the Haynes Corporation of Chicago.

Mr. Haynes, who is recognized as one of the leading efficiency engineers of the country, spoke on the subject of "Preparing for Prosperity."

New Era
"We are just coming out of the reactionary period which followed the period of prosperity during, and just following the war," he said. "It is up to us to study our losses, for from now on, profits will be made out of increased production, instead of increased prices."

Poor Financing
First under the heading of improper financing he placed "watered stock," which is a bad thing for any business. Next on the list was the excessive cost of stock selling. Some businesses are in such a condition that it costs as high as fifty per cent to sell stock for further capitalization.

His third point under improper financing was insufficient capital. He warned anyone who contemplates entering the manufacturing game, especially on a large scale, to be sure to have sufficient capital before starting.

Fourth on his list of improper methods of financing he placed a lack of conservatism, exhorting business men to watch their balance sheets from a bankable standpoint. Insufficient control over credits and collections, and a lack of knowledge of the monthly profits were also given as examples of improper financing.

Improper Organization
One of the greatest losses under the heading of improper management is due to a lack of the proper organization. Mr. Haynes cited the example of a large automobile manufacturing concern which lost $9,000,000 in one year, largely, he said, because the man at the head of the business was not a trained auto man. "Carriage said, in this connection, 'Put all of your eggs in one basket, and watch the basket.' He meant get into one line, and stick to it."

An inexperienced personnel and a lack of a staff organization were also cited as sources of loss.

Insufficient sales analyses, misdirected advertising and a failure to plan and schedule production were also given as examples of loss in industry, due to improper management.

Offensiveness, said the speaker, where there is no wage incentive, a loss amounting to as much as one-sixth of the payroll occurs. This can often be corrected by such methods as piece work, or standardized production.

In closing Mr. Haynes emphasized the fact that there is a need for greater and more economical production.

"Future profits," he repeated, "must come from waste elimination, instead of increased prices."

Hirst Next
D. W. MacWillie presided at the meeting. John R. Hirst, of the Wisconsin State Highway Commission, has been secured as speaker for the next luncheon-meeting.

TWO MORE ARRESTS ARE EXPECTED IN CHURCH MURDERS

Developments Believed Imminent Following Questioning of Mrs. Mill and Brothers

MAKE PUBLIC ADDITIONAL LETTERS FROM MRS. MILLS TO THE PASTOR

New Series of Notes are Filled With Terms of Endearment

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J.—Officials conducting the investigation into the murder of the Rev. Edward W. Hall, rector of the Episcopal church of St. John the Evangelist, and his choir leader, Mrs. Eleanor Rheinhardt Mills, on September 14, were at the court house early Wednesday.

While newspapermen again were barred from the court house it was understood that Prosecutor Beekman of Somerset county and his assistants began at once consideration of stenographic copies of statements taken Tuesday from relatives of the slain.

None of the officials or detectives would offer any prediction as to what may be expected. Crowds of curious persons attracted there by persistent rumors that two more arrests may be expected at any time, gathered about the court house to await developments.

Inspect Bank Vault
Mrs. Hall was summoned from her home to open her safety deposit vault at the People's National bank. What was found in the vault was not disclosed.

Meanwhile, detectives were checking up on newly acquired information. Great secrecy as to its nature was maintained. One angle, it was learned, necessitated a trip to Lavallette, N. J., home of Henry Stevens, brother of the rector's widow.

Publish New Letters
A second series of the letters said to have been written by Mrs. Eleanor Mills, wife of the church sexton, and her choir leader, to the Rev. Edward W. Hall, was made public by the authorities as they continued their efforts to solve the mystery of the slaying of the couple September 14.

Unaddressed and unsigned, the letters are filled with terms of endearment. In them the minister is often referred to as "sweet, adorable babykins." They speak of "a love nest," of a woman's dreams of "true love," and describe the varied moods of a woman loved and loving without the conventions.

Excerpts from the letters follow: "Dearest, Dearest Boy: Wasn't I happy to find a sweet note, for I didn't expect you would risk leaving one for me yesterday? Such delicious ecstasies."

Calls Him "Babykins"
"My Darling: How well you seem today. . . I am tired. I want to lie . . . and rest for hours. Oh, you sweet, adorable babykins of mine."

"The note I hid yesterday was crumpled but I had to hide it in my purse, as I met him."

"I'd build a waiting love nest. . . People would mean nothing. I had rather watch the bugs and ants as they crawl along. Don't you love to watch an ant as it creeps along, honey?"

"And darling, sweetheart, . . . I long for our love to be the truest—ideal—as pure as we can make it, for then it is true to nature."

"I know I'm a crazy cat."

"Charlotte talks—then Don asks questions, then annoy, so how can I write?"

"Darling Mine: Didn't you feel me purring—blissfully contented? And close to you, too."

"My sweetheart, sweetheart, I could crush you. Oh, I am wild tonight."

Hated His Work
"One time I told you I hated your work—I hated your parish. I guess it is because I am jealous of it, because it must come first in your life. Not because of conventions, but because you love it so. Oh, I know it because you are a true priest—born for it."

"I have the greatest of all blessings—a noble man's deep, true, eternal love and my heart is his—my life is his—all I have is his. I am his forever."

"I will hate the winter nights. Then I dream of curling up in a chair with you—oh, what dreams I have! Will it ever be?"

"I am holding my sweet babykins' face in my hands and looking deep into his heart and reading there the message that makes me live—gives me strength and life."

Conscious of Espionage
Publication of the love notes written by Mrs. Mills to Hall disclosed that the pair were conscious they were being spied upon.

In one urgent note, in which the choir singer described the "love nest," she would maintain if she were rich, she concluded:

"Darling, I could rave for hours—but I must stop as there are peepers around."

In another she said: "When I said that I would leave a note, I forgot that I may not be wise. But I may take a chance, for I cannot have you disappointed, even though it isn't much."

DIES IN EAST

John C. Kroner, La Crosse Hardware Merchant, Who Died Early Wednesday in Atlantic City Where He Was Attending the National Wholesale Hardware Dealers Convention.

JOHN C. KRONER DIES WEDNESDAY MORN AT ATLANTIC CITY

President of Fred Kroner Hardware Company is Stricken With Angina Pectoris

END COMES WHILE HE ATTENDS NATIONAL CONVENTION IN EAST

Remains Will be Brought Back to This City for Interment

JOHN C. Kroner, president of the Fred Kroner Hardware company, died at 4 a. m. Wednesday in his apartment in the Marlborough-Blenheim hotel, Atlantic City, N. J. He was attending the national convention of wholesale hardware dealers.

Mr. Kroner left La Crosse last Friday for Chicago and after transacting business there went on to Atlantic City. His death was sudden and unexpected, as he was apparently in the best of health. Death was due to angina pectoris.

Brother Leaves for East
Early Thursday morning Mr. Kroner's brothers were notified by telegraph of his death and later in the morning the secretary of the national association called Ludwig Kroner on the long distance telephone and gave additional information regarding the care that had been given Mr. Kroner and the medical attention rendered in an effort to save his life.

Henry A. Kroner, another brother, left for the east Thursday noon to bring the remains back to this city. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Surviving Mr. Kroner are his wife and four children, Harriet, Lucile and John C. Jr., and George Kroner of St. Louis; and three brothers, Gottlieb, Henry A., and Ludwig F. Kroner.

Many Years in Business
Mr. Kroner was born and reared in La Crosse. He was 57 years last March 29. He attended the public schools of the city and then entered the hardware business with his father. At 23 he assumed charge of the Fred Kroner Hardware company, under the death of his father. In the past year he traveled a great deal for his company in Iowa, Minnesota, and other nearby territory. He also spent much time in the east, at the great steel centers, buying steel for the Kroner company. He stood high in the esteem of the great steel manufacturers of the east and also among the large wholesale hardware merchants of the country.

Member of Clubs
Besides being head of the Fred Kroner Hardware company Mr. Kroner also was president of the La Crosse Steel Roofing and Corrugating company. For many years he was an active participant in the old manufacturers and jobbers association of the city. He also was a member of the La Crosse club and the Elks club.

TURN CATTLE INTO CORNFIELDS WHEN HELP IS LACKING

PEORIA, Ill.—Cattle will be turned into the corn fields of this vicinity if the shortage of corn pickers continues, according to farm authorities here. Employment bureaus are swamped with calls for experienced men but the experienced men are balking at prices paid for their labor. Only men who can turn in 75 bushels of corn a day are wanted and wages of three cents paid a bushel. Inexperienced men cannot do enough work a day to pay for their board, farmers claim.

SWAN OLSON LEARNS A LOT ABOUT HIGH FINANCE IN MADISON

HIRED HERE TO PAINT SIGNS IN MADISON, NOW HE'S BACK

Stranger Works Old Pocketbook Game; Swan's Bankroll Safe

SWAN OLSON, La Crosse painter, learned high finance in one day in Madison but he was a disillusioned man when he left for La Crosse Monday night, priding himself that he was out only railroad fare.

"I never saw Madison before and may be the trip was worth it, but those fellows sure were crooks," he said.

The painting trade had hit a slump at La Crosse, Olson said. He sat about the Nora house, lodging establishment on Third street, waiting for something to turn up. It did.

A stranger hired him to come to Madison to paint signs. He was promised $6 cents an hour and expenses and Olson arrived in Madison with the stranger Sunday night.

Insisted Olson Take Walk
After a night's sleep the stranger suggested a walk. Olson did not care to walk but the stranger insisted. Walking along University drive the stranger insisted that Olson should descend and look at the water.

"I have seen a lot of water and I did not want to go down the hill but the stranger wouldn't be satisfied, so I went," Olson explains. "There lay a wallet. I picked it up. It had $70 in it and a board of trade bond for $100,000. There was also the picture of a man and an address at a Madison hotel."

"He'll probably give each of us $50 if we return it," the stranger said, and we went to the hotel. The man said that he was on the board of trade. The board of trade is all crooked, he expected to be fired off soon, so he said the three of us might as well make some money."

"He gave us each $50 for finding the pocketbook but said that he would invest it in the board of trade for us. He said it was all so crooked that he knew just what way it was going. He went out and came back with $150 for each of us that he had made with the $50."

All Crooked, He Says
"The other fellow got excited. He ran out and came back with $300. He was going to make money fast. I thought it was all right. As long as the board of trade is crooked like he said I didn't care if I did take his money."

"He kept making more money for us. Then he came back and said that he had a chance to make $90,000 in a couple of hours if he could get $30,000 to invest."

"He wanted me to send for my money. I just wanted to make money with cash that he had made for me."

"Well, I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll write a check for $30,000 and you fellows can pay me back afterwards," he said.

"He wrote a check and said he sent it to a bank. Pretty soon it comes a man who says he is the banker. 'You haven't established your credit here yet; you must send to New York to get the money,' says the banker and goes away."

TEXAS LAND CASE TRIAL IN UNITED STATES COURT HERE

Dr. John Shee Asks for Cancellation of Obligations Aggregating Big Sum

CLAIMS MISREPRESENTATIONS WERE MADE IN SALE OF LAND

Trial of Case Will Occupy Several Days It is Expected

TRIAL of a case in which plaintiff, Dr. John Shee of Westby, claims he incurred obligations of a total value of $30,000 in the purchase and improvement of land on the Rio Grande in Texas, some of which is said to be worthless for farming purposes, was started in United States court here before Judge Luse Wednesday morning. The defendant in the case is the Lone Star Immigration company.

Attorneys Winter and Holmes are representing the plaintiff in his suit to recover notes and mortgages and be placed in the same position financially in which he was in before he contracted to purchase the Texas land. W. F. Zumbann of Kansas City is representing the land company and has associated with him in the trial of the case Lees and Bunge of La Crosse.

In his opening statement to the court, Mr. Winter claimed that Dr. Shee agreed to purchase this land on representations of agents and representatives of the land company that it was level, in fine condition for irrigating and was ideal land for raising of citrus fruit. He had not seen the land when he purchased it, Mr. Winter maintained.

Instead of being level, Dr. Shee found a large part of the land was rolling, subject to overflow from the Rio Grande and not in condition for irrigating. He also found that it was not adapted to the raising of citrus fruit.

Pictures will be submitted in evidence, plaintiff's attorney said, showing that the land was covered with an impenetrable growth of thorny vegetation and brush, and that the clearing of the land was an expensive project on which his client had expended $6,000.

Trial of the case is expected to occupy several days. Depositions have been taken from a large number of witnesses and others will be sworn and testify during the trial of the case.

Otto W. Sprecher of Cashton, was admitted to practice in United States court today.

DR. REINSCH ILL; FEARS THE JAPS ARE TRYING TO HURT HIM

PEKING.—By the Associated Press.—Dr. Paul S. Reinsch, former United States minister to China and since 1920 counselor to the Chinese government at Peking, is ill at Hankow. He is said to be suffering from hallucinations that the Japanese are trying to harm him. It is reported that he is to be removed to Shanghai.

Dr. Reinsch served as minister to China from 1913 to 1919, subsequently becoming the close adviser of the North China republic. He is 52 years old, a graduate of the University of Wisconsin and has studied at the Universities of Berlin, Rome, and Peking. He is the author of a number of legal and economic works and has written several books on the far east.

ARMY STARTS INQUIRY INTO C-2 DISASTER

Investigation Opens Wednesday to Determine Cause of Explosion Which Destroyed Airship

BELIEVE FABRIC OF BIG BAG WAS NOT UP TO STANDARD

Believed Accident is Due to Pulling Out of Covering of Dirigible

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—A board of inquiry constituting Lieut. Col. A. G. Fisher, Captain G. W. McEntee and Lieut. Donald Hutchins of Brooks field will begin an inquiry Wednesday morning to determine causes of the explosion which destroyed the army dirigible C-2 Tuesday morning just as it was starting on an exhibition flight over the city carrying eleven passengers. Eight of the eleven were injured by jumping distances from fifteen to twenty feet from the dirigible just before its hydrogen gas and gasoline vapors ignited, but none was seriously hurt. The 192 foot dirigible which had successfully completed a cross-country flight from Langley field, Va., to San Francisco, and was on its homeward voyage, is a complete wreck.

Fabric Faulty?
Major H. A. Strauss, commander of the C-2 is expected to testify before the inquiry board his belief that the accident was caused by fabric pulling out of the envelope as the big dirigible started from the Brooks field hangar. This in the opinion of some officers implies that the fabric used in constructing the dirigible was not up to standard.

Major Strauss' estimate of the value of the C-2 was $70,000. It originally cost the government $270,000.

Strauss Makes Statement
A statement on the direct cause of the accident made by Major Strauss, who was slightly injured, said: "I ordered the ship back into the hangar. Just as we started, another gust of wind came and the fabric to which the windward handling guy was attached, pulled loose. Another handling guy broke under the sudden pressure and the third handling guy failed, releasing the bag and permitting it to swing to the leeward into the concrete structure at the base of the hangar door. The bag was torn. As the bag became loose the car broke in two places. Thirty seconds after the car broke, the hydrogen in the envelope took fire due to the hole and rapid influx of air. The ship had been in perfect condition for the continuation of the transcontinental flight and the cross wind was not of such velocity as would cause any trouble in handling."

The accident, which has resulted so disastrously for the C-2 itself is due primarily to the pulling out of the fabric of the envelope. If this had not occurred the ship undoubtedly would have been safely maneuvered into the hangar.

STORM WARNINGS ORDERED HOISTED AT LAKES PORTS

The City of Honolulu's grave was more than 600 miles south-west of San Francisco. Not a person was injured when she caught fire and was abandoned.

VOTE ON 3 CHANGES IN CONSTITUTION AT NOVEMBER ELECTION

Would Permit Cities to Increase Indebtedness to Buy Utilities; Change Jury Vote

ONE AMENDMENT WOULD PERMIT
SHERIFFS TO 'SUCCEED SELVES

Proposed Changes Should Have Serious Consideration

MADISON, Wis.—Three proposed amendments to the Wisconsin constitution, involving important changes to the basic law of the state, are to be voted on at the November election, three weeks from Tuesday, with scarcely a discussion of their import having been made before the public, George Brown, in charge of the election department of the secretary of state's office, says.

One proposed amendment would authorize cities to incur an additional five per cent indebtedness to acquire and operate public utilities, another would permit a valid jury verdict in civil cases by a five-sixths vote, and the third would permit sheriffs to succeed themselves.

Under the present provisions of the constitution, cities and other municipalities are prohibited from becoming indebted in any manner or for any purpose to any amount, including existing indebtedness, in the aggregate exceeding five per cent on the value of taxable property within its limits, this to be ascertained by the last assessment for state and county taxes previous to the incurring of the indebtedness.

If the proposed amendment is ratified by the people, cities will be authorized to incur an additional five per cent indebtedness for the purpose of acquiring or constructing such railway properties, or properties for the production, transmission or furnishing of heat, light, water or power to the public. This measure has long been fought out in the legislature and has been passed by two sessions. Its adoption would permit extension of municipal ownership which is now hampered by the debt limiting provisions of the constitution.

The proposed change in the law governing trial by jury is suggested for use in civil cases. Under the present provisions a verdict to be valid must be based on the votes of all the members of the jury in both civil and criminal cases. If this proposed amendment is ratified by the people, the legislature will have the power to provide by law that in civil cases, the votes of a specified number of the jury, less than all, but not less than five-sixths, shall be sufficient for a valid verdict.

This amendment is proposed by lawyers who feel that in civil cases the requirement for a unanimous jury verdict often hampers attainment of justice. The proposal involves an important change in court procedure.

The suggested amendment to the provision of the constitution forbidding sheriffs to succeed themselves in office for two years next succeeding the termination of their terms is proposed in order that successful peace officers may be continued in their positions.

For years there has been agitation for a change in the constitution to permit the sheriffs to hold office for consecutive terms but the proposal has never been sanctioned by the electorate.

These changes are of an importance that should bring serious consideration from the voters, Mr. Brown says.

WISCONSIN CANDIDATES FIND IT DIFFICULT TO AROUSE INTEREST IN COMING GENERAL ELECTION

MADISON, Wis.—By the Associated Press.—With the Wisconsin general election less than three weeks away, political headquarters report that they are having difficulty drumming up interest, except in two congressional districts. Appearances, they say, point to a light vote on November 7.

Scarcely any campaigning has been undertaken by candidates for U. S. senate and state officers up to the present time. Mrs. Jessie Jack Hooper, opposing Senator Robert M. La Follette, as an independent democratic candidate for the U. S. senate, is making a vigorous contest. She says that the crowds that she has at her meetings are not always large but that they are enthusiastic. Her itinerary is carrying her throughout the state.

Senator La Follette, according to his present plans, will open his campaign at La Crosse tomorrow. His speech scheduled for Black River Falls tonight has been cancelled. The speaking tour of the senator will be largely in the ninth congressional district where he will aid George L. Schneider, republican nominee for congress, in his contest against Judge Henry Graess, independent republican and C. J. Hanzel, independent democrat.

Gov. J. J. Blaine makes his first campaign address at Fountain City, Friday night. He then will probably swing over to the ninth district to throw his support to Schneider. The governor intends to make a very limited campaign, unless called on by the state central committee to aid republican candidates in certain of the contests that are being waged for seats in the legislature.

The La Follette support is expected to go to Victor Berger, socialist candidate in the fifth district against Congressman William H. Stafford, republican nominee, judging by expressions from those closely in touch with the senator. In turn the socialists have no candidate opposing Senator La Follette.

Republican headquarters here say that there are few local contests of an importance that attracts general attention of the voters. The democrats and republicans are carrying on hard fights in some legislative districts while in a few others republicans and independent republicans are having battles for election.

Politicians say that less interest has been displayed in the coming general election than in any similar contest for years. They express the opinion that the primary election with its overwhelming majority for Senator La Follette and his faction practically decided the general election. Republican candidates for important offices reflect this feeling by their limited activity, and general acceptance of the nominations that amount to election.

The democratic state central committee has caused somewhat of a flurry by its charges that Governor Blaine received the support of the Klux Klan during the primary and that he has failed to repudiate that endorsement.

The governor has replied that through his acts and communications during the past year he has shown his unalterable opposition to the Klan. He has not yet answered a question by the democratic committee asking him if he received support of the American voters league during the primary. This league is said to be sponsored by the Klansmen.

OFFICIALS FORCED BY BANDIT TO OPEN VAULT AT BANK

EVERETT, Wash.—Marshal C. E. Fyn, of Marysville, was forced Tuesday by a bandit to escort him to the home of L. C. Smith, vice president of the Marysville State bank. Mr. Smith was routed out of bed and with Marshal Fyn was escorted to the bank, forced to open it. The vault, time-locked, was not opened and the bandit left with $41 in Canadian currency that was found in a teller's drawer.

VIROQUA DEATHS

VIROQUA, Wis.—The funeral of Hazel Curry, who passed away at his home in Ohio after a several weeks' illness, was held in this city on Friday afternoon from the Otteson undertaking parlor. Mr. Curry was a former resident and pioneer of Vernon county residing for many years at Viola. He is survived by two sons, Attorney Guy A. Curry of Stigler, Oklahoma, and Charley of La Crosse. The wife passed away years ago. The third son, Edgar, preceded him in death a few years ago. Several grandchildren also survive him.

From Los Angeles, California, comes news of the passing of Mrs. Burley Harris, a former resident of this county. Mrs. Harris was formerly Mary E. Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Johnson. Her death was sudden, having been ill but a short time with heart failure. She was sixty years of age. Surviving are three children, Mrs. Henry Dahl of Wilson, Wis., William of Canada, and Charley of Los Angeles, at whose home Mrs. Harris passed away. A sister, Mrs. Frances Bowman, resides in Viroqua, and a brother in California.

STATE HISTORICAL TO ELECT CURATORS AT THURSDAY MEET

MADISON, Wis.—Fourteen curators will be elected at a meeting of the State Historical society Thursday afternoon. During the past year the terms of three curators expired by the death of members. The term of the late Judge Stebecker would have expired this year; the terms of the late John Luchsinger of Monroe would have expired next year; and the term of Colonel J. A. Watrous would have expired in 1924. Besides the filling of these vacancies caused by death, the following terms of curators expire: Hans A. Anderson, Whitehall; M. S. Budgeon, Milwaukee; Carl Russell Fish, Madison; Howard Greene, Green Bay; John L. Grindell, Platteville; William Horlick, Jr., Racine; Deborah E. Martin, Green Bay; Samuel M. Pedrick, Ripon; Alfred H. Sanford, La Crosse; John M. Whitehead, Janesville, and William F. Whyte, Madison. It is expected that all of the curators whose terms of office have expired will be re-elected. There is no other important business to come before the society.

KENOSHA HAS BABY CASE SIMILAR TO TIERNAN EMBROGLIO

KENOSHA, Wis.—Kenosha had a Tiernan case of its own Tuesday when Frank Constantino was arraigned in the municipal court on a charge of non-support of a child of Mrs. Elvora Tizzi, now spurned by her husband, Frank Tizzi, who alleges that their second child and a third expected to be born soon are children of Constantino. The woman sobbed out a confession of her illicit relations with Constantino in the courts here, admitting that Constantino and not her husband was the father of the last two children. Constantino pleaded not guilty and his case was set for trial the latter part of the week.

CHARGE DRY AGENTS LEAVE RAIDED HOMES IN POOR CONDITION

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—Federal and state prohibition agents are charged with having dumped confiscated liquor, beer and other beverages on the floors and in cellars of raided homes, leaving them in unclean, unsanitary and unhealthful condition, in a resolution introduced in the common council, by Alderman T. M. Reynolds. The resolution, which was referred to the judiciary committee, directs the health commissioner to notify the federal and state officers that the alleged practice is contrary to the sanitary and health laws of the city, and that other means for disposal of moon, mash, and home brew be found.

Instant Quaker Oats

Cooks to perfection in 3 to 5 minutes

Ready at 7:05 Before the eggs or coffee

Now our experts have perfected an Instant Quaker Oats—the quickest-cooking oats in the world. Your grocer now has it as well as the regular.
Instant Quaker cooks in 3 to 5 minutes. The cooking is perfect—experts certify to that.

The same exquisite flavor

The fame of Quaker Oats is due to super-flavor. We flake the queen grains only—just the rich, plump, flavory oats. We get but ten pounds from a bushel.
All the world over Quaker Oats dominates, because people love that flavor. And Quaker will always have it.
Instant Quaker is made from the same queen oats. The flavor is identical. But we cut the grains before flaking. Then we roll them thin and partly cook.
So the flakes are smaller and thinner—that is all. And those small, thin flakes cook quickly.

Now you have a double reason for selecting Quaker Oats. You get that exquisite flavor. And you get, if you wish, flakes that cook almost instantly. In either respect, there is no other oat dish in existence that compares.

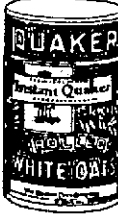

Regular Quaker Oats

Come in package at left—the style you have always known.

Instant Quaker Oats

Come in package at right, with the extra "Instant" label.
Your grocer has both. Be sure to get the style you want.

LET LIGHT SHINE

LET your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven.—Matthew 5: 16.

Toiling Upward

A GOOD many thousand dollars went up in smoke at San Antonio on Wednesday when the C-2 burned. Luckily only a few people received injuries, and these not fatal. Attention can be focused therefore upon the nature of the wreck and its causes. The official report blames the fabric of the balloon envelope, which ripped apart under the strain of guyropes holding it against a strong wind. So we learn, expensively and painfully, how to fly. The next ship the government builds will have a different and stronger specification for the fabric, and the accident which occurred to the C-2 will never be exactly repeated. So in England, when the big dirigible which was made for this country collapsed over Hull they learned the safety point below which the framework of the ships cannot be reduced. It costs huge sums, often it costs lives, to say nothing of great labor lost. But it is not wasted. It is so that civilization has always progressed, learning from its mistakes and doing better at the next attempt. After all, the important thing is the next attempt. By always starting undismayed to do it over and do it better we build up for our posterity a heritage of knowledge and skill, based upon the foundation of painfully acquired experience handed down to us by our ancestors. What we take for granted today as "abc stuff" was somewhere in the past ferreted out with toil and pain by some forgotten experimenter. Probably the achievements we hail so excitedly in the realm of aviation, radio or what-not in this generation will be as little regarded in the future by those who build upon them. They are great, but they are perhaps not so great, after all, as the discovery of the first man who found out how to use a lever, or of the man who invented the bow and arrow. These were original products of native genius, uninstructed. The primitive inventors had nothing to go upon but their own observation and intelligence. Were we to see these men in the setting of modern civilization we should laugh at them as barbarians, practically animals. Yet they were of the earth's greatest, and the lineal forefathers of every scientist down to Marconi and Wright.

"Good Readin'"

IN 1940 the world will celebrate the 500th anniversary of the invention of movable type. Before this invention, printing was done by carving an entire page on a solid block of wood or metal. In the 60 years after the first movable type was brought out by Coster or Gutenberg, 40,000 books were printed.

Research men in England, with more time than they know what to do with, have been checking up. They estimate that about 16,500,000 separate books have been printed, in all countries combined, since the invention of movable type. Nearly 300,000 new books are turned loose on the world each year. And the flood steadily grows larger. In addition, is the tremendous output of newspapers, magazines, trade papers, folders, booklets, etc.

Small wonder, that most of us are perplexed when it comes to deciding what to read. We are like flies, facing a mountain of sugar, and unable to eat more than one grain at a time. Rather a discouraging outlook for young writers. George Ade once said that the chief trouble with the writing business is that there is so much competition with dead men.

Even a rapid reader, reading all day and far into the night, would be unable to peruse more than 1 in 1000 of the new books issued yearly throughout the world. Life is short. We are caged in by the limits of time. As with books, so with knowledge. The most brilliant brain finds life too short to acquire more than a tiny fraction of the vast fund of knowledge accumulated and passed on through the centuries by millions of inquiring minds.

Knowledge is a circus with a million rings, all going at once, no man able to grasp the whole show. The choice is to watch one ring intently (specialize) or wander up and down the tent, picking up a smattering about all rings in general and none in particular. French writers seem to grasp the idea. It is not unusual for one of them to devote a lifetime of research to writing the history of one article—such as the pin, glove or sparrow.

Greatest of all books is the never-ending serial story, the Book of Life. You see it mirrored in the newspaper.

Beauty

LORADO TAFT, Chicago sculptor, laments that the only objects of beauty in the average American small town are its girls and its trees. What more does he want? No artist ever produced anything as beautiful as girls and trees. Art, at its best, is only a poor counterfeit of nature. Ask any artist who has ever tried to paint the aurora borealis.

Great poets come from the country or small towns, says Taft, because their "imagination is cultivated by the lack of the jiggling movie show of the cities."

Still, the great poets came from farm and village before the cities had movies. Explanation involves more than movies.

Poetry, like art, is an imitation of nature. And the city is as far removed from nature as the dull minds of men can make it. That's why beautiful characters are scarcer in cities than close to the soil. City life is as destructive of beauty and character as cancer is deadly to the body.

Sure-Fire

A LIFE sentence in the penitentiary is dealt out to an eastern man convicted of burglarizing an inhabited dwelling during the night. Sentimentalists will claim, "Yes, but that doesn't stop burglary." However, we know one burglar who will not be prying windows open for some time. Regardless of its psychological effects, whether severe sentences set a terrifying example or not, inmates of prisons are eliminated from crime as long as they're incarcerated.

The basic purpose of law is to deal with the wicked, not to set examples. Effect on others has nothing to do with the individual case on trial.

Laws

PRESIDENT Harding, says the New York Journal of Commerce, plans so that "the nation will be given a year's freedom from congressional legislation." A vacation in law-making would be a good thing. Fewer new laws, more attention to enforcement of old ones, should be the program. Americans have a national mania for making rules and regulations. Most problems will solve themselves if left alone. Usually, by the time a law is put through, it's no longer needed.

Joke?

THOUSANDS of typists in London are hoaxed by a fake ad offering a job at big pay. "No such company at this address," Walter Agombar, London cobbler, is the victim of a joker who advertised that Walt would repair shoes free of charge for a fortnight. Vicious "humor" of this sort is hard to explain, but no more so than any other joke. Ever try to explain a joke?

SAYS LEAGUE OF NATIONS PROVES WORTH

EUROPE THROUGH AN EDITOR'S EYES

Eighth Article—What the League is Doing.

By James M. Cox, Ex-Governor of Ohio

When a traveler reaches Geneva after visiting the larger European centers, he feels as though he has entered quite another world. You see no monuments to war. It has been for generations a common practice for European countries to mold into heroic shafts the cannon captured in conflict.

The old Romans doubtless made the start in holding the trophies of war as a means of keeping alive the military ambitions of the people. All over Europe monuments can be found with the inscription that they were built from cannon taken in stated wars.

You go through the old Austrian palace in the suburbs of Vienna and find endless lines of paintings, all carrying the brilliant colors of soldiers' uniforms, the pomp and pageantry of the march—everything is war, war.

You find nothing dedicated to the arts, to the development of agriculture, to the cause of peace. True enough, these are of the days gone by, but it required the most awful slaughter of humanity the world had ever known to turn human imagination into a new course.

Switzerland has been singularly free from war. Her people are peace-loving and the progress which they have made in this mountainous country has won for them the moral support of the world. Any invasion of Switzerland would have occasioned international resentment. The preaching of peace has gone on for generations. It was the ideal location for the seat of the league of nations.

An American stated his surprise on coming to Geneva. He had expected to see in the institution of the league a sort of international police department, where complaints were being filed, and orders were being given for the use of the big stick.

He saw many nationalities there—Japanese, Brazilians, Argentinians, Canadians, Finns, Australians, Hollanders, Belgians, French, English and others; and, upon inquiry ascertained that they were either attached to the league, or were visitors, whose interest in the work had brought them to the seat of peace. No military uniform was to be seen anywhere.

World Peace is Geneva's Sole Aim

At the international club, during the luncheon hours, intellectuals from many countries, including college presidents and professors from America, were discussing what holds the imagination at Geneva—a peace that will encircle the world—not the affair of a day, but an objective that will claim the sustained purpose of a civilization that must live but which cannot live unless a changed order is persisted in.

Geneva is a busy place. Its streets are filled with visitors. As a result of the unusual interest in the work of the league, there was conducted during the summer a sort of chautauque season. The program from August 2 to August 13 was most informative. World conditions in all their multifarious phases were discussed by competent authorities.

Captain W. S. Sanders, for instance, talked on the origin and structure of the international labor office. Dr. Mauley O. Hudson of Harvard university explained the permanent court of international justice. Mr. S. Nixon and Dr. Royal Meeker gave lectures on economic reconstruction, including the work of the economic, financial communications and the transit commissions.

Prof. Rapinard of Switzerland gave his observations on the administrative commissions and mandates. Health and humanitarian questions from the base of a talk by Dr. Raschmann, E. J. Phelan from Ireland gave his observations on the possibilities of improving labor conditions. These subject matters supply an index to the form that an awakened interest has assumed.

The league purchased a building, established its offices and is addressing itself to a great mass of work which is disposed of without any blare of trumpets. The organization is very interesting.

The section for administrative commissions is directed by a Norwegian, the economic and financial section by a Canadian, the legal section by a Hollander, the political section by a Frenchman, the disarmament section by an Italian, the mandate section by a Swiss, the health section by a Pole, the transit section by an Italian, the information section by a Frenchman, the social questions section by an English woman, the international labor organization by a Frenchman, the library section by an American woman.

Labor Section of League Kept Busy where there are approximately two hundred employees, twenty-eight nations are represented. There was real activity about the place even though it was midsummer. Not far away, the international court of justice, created under the provisions of the treaty of Versailles, and organized under the offices of the league, had rendered its first decision.

We visited the Carnegie palace of peace. Its architectural lines are good, but its exterior of brick is singularly free from war. Her people are peace-loving and the progress which they have made in this mountainous country has won for them the moral support of the world.

The preaching of peace has gone on for generations. It was the ideal location for the seat of the league of nations.

In its early days, the United States of America gave co-operation. A flood of emotions runs through the mind of an American.

He wonders whether the idealism of our country has subsided or whether it might not be that it still lives but has been overwhelmed for the time in the maelstrom of partisan politics.

The Rockefeller foundation endorsed the health work of the league and offered the sum of $30,000 a year for five years to help in collection and distribution of epidemiological intelligence.

Those who believe that the international scheme is feasible and will be adopted ultimately by all nations, find the base of their faith in the sustained processes now going on in Geneva, reaching out as they do into so many fields of human endeavor and interest.

As one leaves the court room of the great international tribunal and walks the imposing stairway, he finds two figures in bronze, one symbolic of law, the other of justice, both donated by the United States of America. Facing the expansive lobby above, he sees a figure of Christ bearing the cross and speaking His message of peace on earth and good will to men. It was this spirit which stirred Carnegie into his conception of the enterprise.

In its early days, the United States of America gave co-operation. A flood of emotions runs through the mind of an American as he appreciates the compliment, conferred by placing two contributions from our around to Burtis' now and choose the ring.

The next day the little gold and silver lovers' knot was gone from Mildred's finger and in its place was a glittering diamond that called forth all the admiration she had craved from her friends at the office and elsewhere.

"You are a lucky girl," sighed Jennie Jones, one of the bookkeepers. "You are going to marry a man who has built a house, furnished it completely, and given you a beautiful ring, too! Think of poor me—when I married Will he gave me a gorgeous ring and we bought a thousand dollars' worth of furniture on the installment plan and leased an apartment. That was two years ago—we lost all the furniture, the ring was pawned to pay the doctor's bill when I was so sick last winter and we are doing light housekeeping in two tiny rooms! I am back at my job and we are both saving every cent we can, for a home so we can start right the next time."

"You are a lucky girl," the words rang in Mildred's ears for many a day after that, as she wore the beautiful ring that sealed her engagement to Leonard. She did not earn a large salary, and it was only by scrimping that she could save a little each week after all her expenses were paid. She was all alone in the world and there was no near relative to advise her about the management of her affairs. But experience was teaching her something, and all that long, hot summer, when she met Leonard, she could see that he was practicing small economies.

"Perhaps he is saving for the furniture," she thought with a blush, and she would turn the diamond around so that she could not see its glittering facets. One day she overheard two of her office associates talking together.

"Married?" sniffed one man. "Can't afford it, my boy. Girls expect too much nowadays—first one has to bust loose with a diamond that's worth twice as much as the other fellows are buying—least an expensive apartment—"

"Mildred hastened away with burning cheeks. It was all true. She had been most unhappy ever since she had worn the diamond ring. She wanted that money to furnish her home—and as the time went by she realized that the home meant more to her than all the diamond rings in the world.

She thought of the little brown shingled house, empty and waiting because there was nothing to furnish it with. One evening she walked over there alone and found a light burning behind drawn window shades. Her steps were echoing in the bare rooms. Perhaps it was Leonard—she pulled out her key and softly entered the house.

The light from the dining room chandelier shone into the living room and showed the walls had been papered in soft brown—even the ceiling had been done in ivory. In the dining room was a slap-slap as Leonard applied the paste to lengths of paper spread on a roughly constructed table.

Leonard was papering the rooms himself, Leonard who worked so hard all day long that he was weary at night—who had gone without a vacation so that he might work in the house he was making ready for her for the most selfish girl in the world she told herself angrily.

"Leonard," she said softly. "Dearest," he answered coming to embrace her, while a paste brush waved uncertainly over her head. "What are you doing here? I was going to surprise you by finishing it before Sunday."

"I came to ask you for something," she whispered, her face against his old coat where a dab of wet paste clung. "I want the little lovers' knot knotted back again—please."

"But the diamond—have you lost it?" he asked.

"No—but I want you to sell it and let us buy the furniture and be happy, and I feel more engaged with the little ring you gave me at first," he the single conflict is not disposed of in brief season. There will be cause for considerable anxiety in south-eastern Europe, but I hazard the guess that fires will be put out before conflagration involves many frontiers. There are so many agencies for peace quietly operating in Europe that any warlike aspirations will not get very far. When the Turkish matter is adjusted, it will be upon basic guarantees and the trusted mark the prediction, will be the League of Nations."

This calls attention to a very interesting development involving the economical and financial affairs of newly created nations and demonstrates the absolute necessity of a permanent going concern where international matters must center. The large loan made not long ago to Czechoslovakia had attached to it certain conditions of continuing force. These agreements were assigned to the league.

A necessary part of the rehabilitation of European countries will be the establishment of credits. In Austria, for instance, no one would think of making a loan except upon the most expressed if not arbitrary terms. With the readjustment of reparations, both Germany and France will doubtless get extensive credits.

Here also will be found certain fixed stipulations. Inevitably, there will be a prolonged checking up period and this detail logically fits into an organization having functions both economical and political.

Reference has already been made to the distinguished Frenchman, M. Albert Thomas, who is in charge of the international labor organization. Out of the conferences that have been held under its auspices have come definite constructive results. The covenant of the league provided as a necessary part of the task of reformation, for the carrying on of a project devoted to the general improvement of working conditions. It was not only the desire to awaken so-called backward countries to the modern view, but to bring some of the more progressive nations to an appreciation of the good which will come from standard health regulations.

Faith in League Seems Justified

In a word, the method of approach to this task has been the assembling of representatives of both capital and labor from all sections of the world with the ultimate view of having a created public opinion translated into law. No legislation has been commended until after agreement has been reached in the conferences between employer and employee. Those who have followed the operations of the labor branch are familiar with the beneficent laws that have been passed in many sections.

Even in Japan and in India are found what might be designated as the extreme instances of this improvement. Those who believe that the international scheme is feasible and will be adopted ultimately by all nations, find the base of their faith in the sustained processes that are now going on at Geneva.

They are reaching out as they do into so many fields of human endeavor and interest. Obviously, a stable public opinion is to be made by demonstration rather than propaganda.

Human genius has devised and found quite indispensable organizations such as the International Chamber of Commerce, the International Postal Union and other agencies. If these contacts are essential to the business of the world, then it is fair to assume that under the compelling forces of enterprise and progress the affairs of governments will automatically adjust themselves to modern methods.

The effect of the peace treaty provisions on European countries is ex-Governor Cox's subject in tomorrow's article.

They will now complain probably if lowers are buying—least an expensive apartment—" laughed and kissed her holding her tight to his heart. Then he allowed her to pull the little ring out of his pocket and slip it on her third finger, while the diamond found its way into his pocket to be converted into furniture.

"Now I am happy," sighed Mildred and the paste brush wobbled drippingly over their blissful heads.

SEVEN-EIGHTHS OF STATE NOT WITHIN HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICTS

Urges Creation of Capital Fund for Rural High School

JANESVILLE, Wis. — A program for high school development in Wisconsin is urgently needed to remedy present chaotic teaching conditions that exist throughout many rural districts and in some cities, Dr. E. Fitzpatrick, secretary of the state board of education said Tuesday in an address before the Janesville Rotary club.

Dr. Fitzpatrick reviewed the existing high school situation in Wisconsin which shows that half of the secondary schools have four or less teachers, while seven-eighths of territory of the state is not within high school districts, and then suggested the following program of development:

The creation of a capital fund, the income of which shall be devoted at least in part definitely to high schools and more particularly to high schools in rural areas.

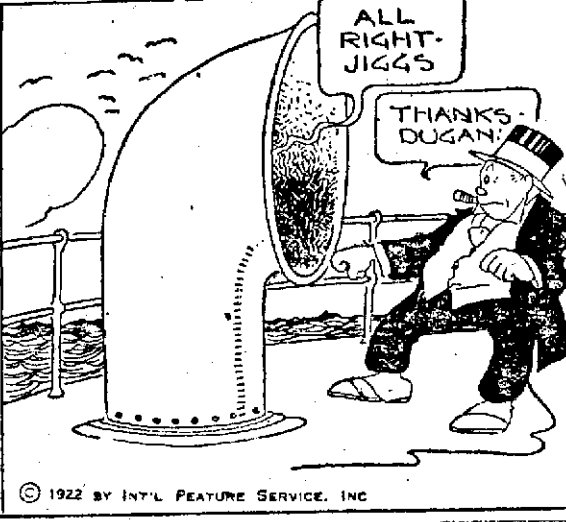

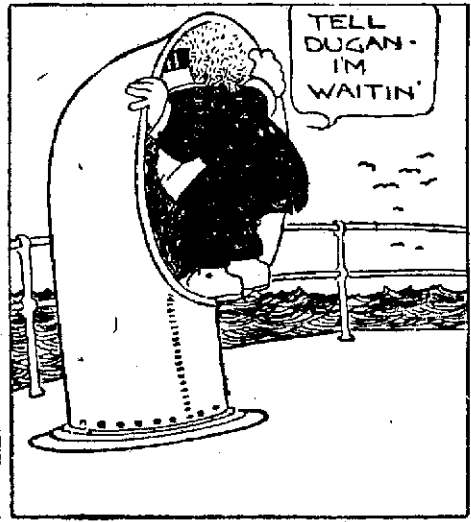

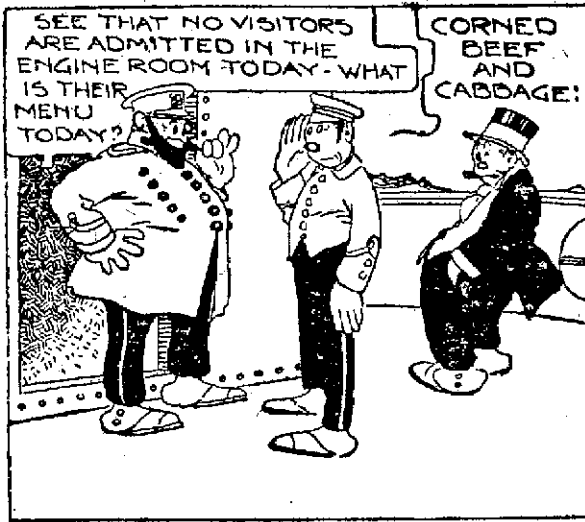

Larger state aid immediately from the general fund to be gradually replaced by income from the new capital fund.

Revision of the conditions and scope of present state aid to high schools.

Organization of high school districts including a larger number of children, and greater financial ability to support high schools.

The organization of general rural high schools in the rural areas. Dormitories should be built whenever necessary. Ten acres of land should be regarded as a minimum campus for rural high schools.

Improvement of the quality of high school teachers by longer and more specific training for the work.

Organization of high schools so that teachers will be called upon to teach only subjects in which they are qualified to teach. The organization of junior high schools instead of four year high schools in smaller places so as to make possible better utilization of teachers and a better utilization of teacher service in the interest of a thorough education of the high school student.

"As a matter of history, Wisconsin's Educational policy, especially its state legislation, has been largely in terms of the common school," Dr. Fitzpatrick said. "In particular, the high school policy has been one of drift."

"Half of Wisconsin's high schools have four teachers or less, and more than two-thirds have less than six teachers," the speaker said. "It is reasonably certain that with the program that the modern high school is expected to offer the high school student, it cannot be adequately undertaken with less than five teachers devoting their entire time to the work.

"According to statistics collected by the college of agriculture, seven-eighths of the territory of the state is not within high school districts. These statistics do not mean that seven-eighths of the population is without high school opportunities because the high schools are located in the centers of population, but it does mean that there are extensive areas without convenient access to high school opportunities.

"The modern high school teacher should be a specialist at least in one subject, and under ordinary conditions in two subjects. Under the actual conditions in this state many high school teachers are required to teach subjects which they are unprepared to teach, and many are asked to teach a bewildering variety of subjects."

DETLOFF GETS LIFE
IN DOUBLE SLAYING
OF AUSTIN COUPLE

AUSTIN, Minn.—August F. Detloff, confessed slayer of Mr. and Mrs. John Wagner, his wife's parents, near Grand Meadow the night of July 12 last, Tuesday was sentenced to life imprisonment in the state penitentiary by District Judge J. P. R. Melgren.

Detloff was arraigned at 9:03 a. m. and at the end of nine tense minutes was walking back to the county jail under escort of Sheriff N. Nicholson.

and Deputy Ira Syck, with the sentence of the district judge still ringing in his ears—"For the term of your natural life."

A crowded courtroom heard the reading by County Attorney Bandler of the grand jury indictment returned yesterday, charging Detloff with the murder of Mr. Wagner, followed by Detloff's plea of guilty. Not a relative of the accused man nor his divorced wife were in attendance.

Detloff, who confessed to the crime in a written confession on Aug. 6, will be taken to Stillwater either this afternoon or tomorrow by Sheriff Nicholson.

Mr. Wagner's body was found the day following the murder, the face crushed by the blow of an ax. His wife died several days later from ax injuries. The aged couple were attacked while asleep.

Detloff, arrested a few days after the murder, made a written confession of the crime. He told county authorities his act was prompted by a desire to hasten his wife's inheritance from her parents.

SPLENDID PROGRAM ENJOYED BY 20TH CENTURY MEMBERS

The Executive Board of the Twentieth Century club gave a reception to its members Tuesday afternoon at the Country Club.

The rooms were very beautifully decorated with autumn boughs, large ferns, masses of bitter sweet, and baskets of brilliant colored zinnias.

Preceding the reception a short business meeting was held. Plans of work for the year were recommended and voted upon.

The public welfare work, with Mrs. D. S. Smith as chairman, recommended that we co-operate with the city health department and the Community Council in their health work and children's free clinic held at the city hall.

Mrs. W. H. Sanders and Mrs. D. S. Smith were appointed to work with Mrs. A. E. Soderberg, who is chairman of the children's free clinic for the Community Council.

The applied education committee plans to work along all lines of conservation of wild life. To study the work through the winter months and do some active definite work in the spring. Mrs. Frank Burgess is chairman of this committee.

The fine arts committee with Mrs. A. W. Schall as chairman, plans to co-operate with the Music Study club and the Art and Drama club to get the public more interested in the good music-art and drama that is to be brought to the city this winter.

It was voted to continue to pay the $150 scholarship for the boy going to our high school for another year. Twenty dollars was voted to be paid to the Women's Union Christian colleges of the Orient.

Prof. L. O. Coate of the Normal school introduced Prof. William M. Lox, head of the department of modern languages of the La Crosse Normal, who spoke on the coming play of Moliere to be given Thursday night at the Normal auditorium. Prof. Lox says:

"The Imaginary Invalid" by Moliere, is to be the subject of the play which is the last of five plays dealing with the medical profession by this author. Argon, the imaginary sick man, is the leading character. He opens the play in a humorous monologue in which he counts up the months' medical and drug expense. This he finds exorbitant and so he decides that his attractive daughter Angeline must marry a doctor so that he may have dependable medical care. However, the daughter does not share the father's opinion, and trouble is started.

Moliere solves the difficulty by putting into the mouth of a designing servant the sage advice that Argon himself should become a physician. He accepts the plan, and the play ends with the scene where Argon takes the terrible oath of the profession.

"Moliere stands second only to Shakespeare in the history of modern dramatic literature. All of his plays are pure, social comedies, of the highest order. The proof of his remarkable genius is that social plays based essentially upon custom and conditions of the Louis Fourteenth period should have retained their humor and appeal for 250 years. In Paris most of Moliere's plays are performed annually to this day by the company of actors that are the direct successors of Moliere's original company."

Then followed the reception which was unusually enjoyable. The table was centered with a handsome cloth of embroidered satin damask with a huge basket of zinnias in shades of Bronze and gold, circled with yellow tapers in iridescent sticks. Mrs. J. A. Bradford and Mrs. F. A. Douglas poured coffee, assisted by the other members of the board: Mesdames H. J. Soper, Amelia Card, W. A. Schall, Frank Burgess, D. S. Smith, W. R. Engh, B. O. Coate, A. E. Soderberg, Frank Winter, Emma Law, C. C. Rawlison, James Vincent, W. J. Phillips and the Misses Lena Galetti and Florence Shuman.

THE LADIES' Aid society of St. Paul's Lutheran church will be entertained at the church parlors Thursday afternoon by Mrs. Thomas Jackson, Mrs. L. Jamoseth and Mrs. A. Hynde.

THE FRENCH Island Home Makers club will meet Thursday with Mrs. John McFann. Dinner will be served at noon. Miss Dunlap, supervising teacher of the county, will be the speaker.

THE OCTOBER committee of the Woman's Union of the First Congregational church will give a chicken supper at the church parlors on Thursday at six o'clock. The public is invited.

THE DORCAS society of Our Saviour's Lutheran church meets Thursday evening at 7:30 at the church parlors and will be entertained by the Misses Emma, Anna and Inga Lysaker.

THE LA CROSSE Music Study Club will meet with Miss Ida Schumann at 116 South Fourteenth street Saturday afternoon, with Mrs. Robert C. Whelpley and Miss Schumann in charge of the meeting.

The children of all members are cordially invited to attend as the program of children's music will be of interest to them. It is requested that all members arrange to be on time so that the meeting can be opened promptly at 2:30.

THE CHOIR of the Congregational Church will meet in the church parlors at 7 o'clock Wednesday evening instead of Thursday evening at 7:30.

THE LADIES' Aid of St. John's Reformed church meets at the church parlors Thursday afternoon. Mrs.

Wm. Sheldon and Mrs. Max Schut will be the hostesses. A cordial welcome is extended to all.

MRS. JOSEPH Freilinger, 1010 South Thirteenth street, entertained twelve little tots on Tuesday in honor of the fourth birthday of her small daughter, Virginia May. It was a very merry little gathering, the guests being happily entertained with jocular games. The decorations were in token of Halloween, as were the favors. The birthday child was the recipient of many pretty gifts. The center of attraction for these little people was a birthday cake with its flaming tapers. The guests were the small Misses Iona Zeiman, Louise Peterson, Lucile Neitch, Janice Frey, Mildred and Leona Deleken, Beverly June, Florence and Alice Jansky, Irvine Zeisler and Dicky Meir.

MRS. A. V. INGHAM, Mrs. W. A. Cutting, Mrs. Willard Wilkins and Mrs. J. G. Elston of the First Methodist church, and Mrs. Frank Anderson of the West Avenue Methodist church left Wednesday for Elroy to attend the annual district convention of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society to be held on Thursday and Friday.

DETAILS ABOUT THE DAYLIGHT

HAS the best motor money can buy—and all material and workmanship is the best.

THERE are no springs on the Daylight.

THE whole machine is rigid, compact and neat, not bulky and shaky—the Daylight stands without bracing.

THE tub is of extra heavy copper, has rounded sanitary corners and bottom; no ridges, crevices or corners.

THE gas heater is built in; it is economical and efficient.

THE triple cone vacuum plunger gently drives sudsy water and air through the clothes. There is no wear.

THE wringer has genuine rubber rolls, 12 inches wide. Will wring clothes better than any other.

NO lint is ever found in a Daylight tub.

IT has an adjustable capacity for one to nine sheets.

THE Family Wash can be done in from 1 1/2 to 2 hours at a cost of about 10 cents for electricity and gas.

When you wash dainty clothes do you throw them roughly from one side of the tub to the other? Of course not, you lift them up and down carefully to permit the water to seep through them. That's the way the Daylight does it.

TOMORROW IS SET FOR PRODUCTION OF MOLIERE'S DRAMA

"Imaginary Invalid" by Coffer Miller Company at the Normal

On Thursday evening this week the Coffer Miller Players will be at the Normal school in Moliere's greatest comedy, "The Imaginary Invalid." This brilliant satire on the doctors of the early centuries is even funnier and more clever than "The Rivals," which the company presented last year. The company, besides Jess Coffer and Martha Miller in the leading roles, has one of the best supporting casts on tour today. The main green curtain has been used in their production of "The Rivals" and is replaced by tapestry hangings which enrich and enhance the effect on eyes and imagination.

The popularity of the Coffer Miller Players is evidenced by the fact that they are returning to each of the 110 cities visited last year. Leading Normal schools and representative high schools retain them on their schedules. The play this year will be presented under the auspices of the Buskin club. Both community and normal are urged to support the club in its efforts to present the best drama.

TRIO BREAKS JAIL AT LOS ANGELES ESCAPE IN AUTO

LOS ANGELES, Calif.—Herbert Wilson, known by police and federal operatives as a "master criminal," convicted of murder of his pal, Herbert Cox, escaped from the county jail here with another convicted murderer, Adam Ward, and Guido Spignola, held on a robbery charge.

The trio outside the jail held up a postoffice employee and taking his automobile from him, escaped. The jail break was carefully timed for just before seven o'clock, when the guards had been taken from the guardhouse by a mob of night turners. The jail-breakers held up the night turner, Henry Purpura, after having held up two inside guards. A fourth prisoner was believed to have escaped with them. The jail-breakers were armed with revolvers, evidently smuggled in by a friend.

INCREASED ACTIVITY REPORTED IN WOODS

BIRCHWOOD, Wis.—More lumber will be cut next year as a result of gigantic logging operations than has been cut since the close of the war. It is believed, judging by activities in the woods this fall and winter. More lumber companies have started operations in the forests in this region and a tremendous cut of both soft and hard wood timber will result. Wages are expected to be good and it is thought that loggers' companies will have difficulty in getting enough help. Lumber camps are now equipped with semi-modern conveniences and the new type of camp is expected to appeal to many men who never before worked in the forests.

BREAK CHEST COLDS WITH RED PEPPER

Ease your tight, aching chest. Stop the pain. Break up the congestion. Feel a bad cold loosen up in just a short time.

"Red Pepper Rub" is the cold remedy that brings quickest relief. It cannot hurt you and it certainly seems to end the tightness and drive the congestion and soreness right out. Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red peppers, and when heat penetrates right down into colds, congestion, aching muscles and sore, stiff joints relief comes at once.

The moment you apply Red Pepper Rub you feel the tingling heat. In three minutes the congested spot is warmed through and through. When you are suffering from a cold, rheumatism, headache, stiff neck or sore muscles, just get a jar of Rowles Red Pepper Rub, made from red peppers, at any drug store. You will have the quickest relief known. Always say "Rowles."

VACHEL LINDSAY IS NEXT FEATURE IN NORMAL COURSE

In connection with the engagement of Mr. Vachel Lindsay (Vachel rhymes with Rachel) in the Normal lecture course for the evening of Thursday, October 26, an interesting experiment will be tried. Perhaps this experiment is best described in the words of Mr. Lindsay's manager, who writes about it as follows:

"I have found it great inducement to the appreciation of Mr. Lindsay's poetry to have copies of his works on sale with the announcement through the press and elsewhere that Mr. Lindsay will autograph after the lecture all books brought to him.

"This has a double purpose, bringing the people to the lecture, inducing them to read the books beforehand, and then making them later re-read the poems which he selected for the audience.

"I have had twelve poets to visit Baylor university and I have tried this scheme with a number of them and I have found it very successful. At a recent engagement for Carl Sandburg the University Book Store sold about forty copies of his works, the town booksellers sold a fair number and just before Mr. Sandburg began to speak I phoned down town to find out how many books were available. There were something like thirty. I sent for them, and had one of the students announce that there were some books at the door and all sold would be autographed. They were sold in less than five minutes.

"Rabindranath Tagore autographed books constantly for one hour. The crowd almost smothered him. Every book of his in town was sold, others were secured by phoning Dallas. This autographing is a custom that is followed in the larger cities quite a bit, and it is helpful to author and reader alike.

"Almost invariably, at the last minute some half dozen people have come to me and asked me to find out how they could secure an autographed copy of a book by the poet. Can they buy one and send it to him?"

"Mr. Lindsay's one request of all clubs and colleges which engage him is that a full set of his books be placed available for all who desire to read them and thus prepare to obtain the best results out of the engagement."

In accordance with this plan Mr. Lindsay's books will soon be on sale at local book stores. A practically complete set for reference may be found in the public library.

PROBE DEATH OF "DIVINE HEALER" IN ST. LOUIS

Wife Declares Belief that Schlatter Was Victim of Foul Play

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—By The Associated Press.—A coroner's inquest was scheduled to be held Wednesday morning to determine whether there were any mysterious circumstances connected with the death of Francis Schlatter, 66 years old, who won national renown a quarter of a century ago with claims of power to heal in a rooming house here Monday night.

The police expressed the belief that Schlatter's death was caused by hemorrhages induced from pneumonia, but are searching for a woman who was with him when he died.

Mrs. Agnes Schlatter, a lecturer for a church publication, arrived in St. Louis from Kansas City Tuesday night and declared she believed her husband had met with foul play. She said her husband had a following of Spiritualists who pressed Schlatter's contemplated confirmation into the Episcopal church, of which she is a member.

Miss Evelyn Hartman, the landlady at the rooming-house, told police that the woman living with Schlatter on one occasion gave her name as "Mrs. Madeline Black," and on another occasion said she was Mrs. Schlatter.

Schlatter was an eccentric character, often retreating to the mountains to recover from the strain of his missions. He is pictured as preaching his mission to thousands in the hills of the Rocky mountains and multitudes flocked to hear "the divine healer." He wore a picturesque long black flowing beard and was attired in a black robe.

After disappearing several times he finally dropped out of sight and the local police several times received telegrams from his wife who formerly made her home in Chicago asking aid in searching for her husband.

At one time Schlatter was given nationwide publicity as the man who "cured" Mrs. McKinley, mother of President McKinley.

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody Will Know

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied, with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and out of date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

MAN WHO HAD HIS SUIT STOLEN IS ARRESTED FOR THEFT OF AN OVERCOAT

WINONA.—Fate apparently played a sorry trick on Jesse W. Franks, 46 years old, a painter by trade, when he was arrested by Winona police for alleged theft of an overcoat less than three weeks after Arthur C. Nelson, 28 years old, had been sentenced to serve 20 days in the Winona county jail for theft of a blue serge suit belonging to Franks.

Franks was arrested late yesterday and was being held at the police station today pending issuance of a formal complaint charging grand larceny in the second degree, which Chief H. C. Riebau said would be signed this afternoon. The complaint was to be made by G. W. Taylor of La Crosse, special agent for the Milwaukee road.

Coat Taken From Train
Franks is alleged to have stolen an overcoat belonging to Albert Hyzer, farmer and stock buyer of Storm Lake, Ia., from a Milwaukee road train at the Winona station early last Friday morning. The coat had recently been purchased in Minneapolis for $35, the owner told police.

Hyzer, a passenger on eastbound train No. 16, due here at 1:56 a. m., stepped into another car when the train stopped at Winona, only to find on his return to his original seat that his overcoat was missing. Other passengers gave a description of a man whom they had seen enter the car and take the coat, police said.

Franks was taken in custody several hours later on suspicion, police said, after they had received information that he had bought a ticket for La Crosse but had left the train as it was departing from Winona.

Police said they learned that Franks was wearing no overcoat while in the station waiting for the train, but that he had appeared with one later on the street.

Said to Admit Theft
Franks asserted that the coat he was wearing when apprehended, Chief Riebau said, had been purchased from Sid Harris, local restaurant man. Police investigated this statement and found it to be true, according to Chief Riebau, and Franks was released. Franks went to La Crosse the same day, according to the authorities, later returning to Winona.

Later police said they learned that Franks had another overcoat, believed to be that taken from the train. He was again taken in custody late yesterday. Franks at first denied taking the coat, Chief Riebau said, but finally admitted the theft. He asserted that he had given the coat to Donald Prenot, 17 years old, because it was too small for him, according to police. Prenot when questioned produced the coat and told Chief Riebau that he had accepted it as a gift not knowing it was stolen property, it was stated.

Franks is said to have told police that his home is at Rockford, Ill., and that he has a wife working in the Chicago restaurant at La Crosse.

Arthur C. Nelson, 28 years old, is serving a 20 day sentence in the county jail for theft of a blue serge suit belonging to Franks Sept. 28. The suit was taken from a room in the Ludwig hotel. Nelson was arrested at La Crosse when he was observed by police there to be wearing a suit much too large for him.

His home is also said to be at Rockford, Ill.

Public Debate

Seeing an article in Sunday's Tribune about the great saving to consumers and likewise great profits to the farmers who conduct these milk stations, we think this is looked at in rather a narrow, unobserving way as only the good points were named and only the income without deducting labor, time, etc.

Now considering the sanitary side of it which was only partly dealt with, we will say that were these men, advocates of this plan, to come to some of the farmers supplying the milk stations closely inspect surrounding conditions they would not call it 100 per cent sanitary. The dairy men near the city are under close observation and are compelled to observe certain sanitary rules. Whereas it seems that farmers further away are left to do as they please about it, and as we understand are not in any way influenced by inspectors or the like. The creamery association of this territory has a field man going about working among the farmers and looking after the sanitary conditions. No partiality is shown. The rules and regulations are the same for farmers living a distance from the receiving station as those nearby. On the contrary the milk station keepers have the city health inspectors who inspect the milk stations but has probably never seen the farms and surrounding conditions on their farms which are a number of miles out.

The Nurse in Africa

When traveling through Africa on every hand you see something contrary to your own order of things. A baby is carried not in the arms but on the back or on the hip; not rocked in a cradle but rolled on a mat; not picked up by the body, but lifted by the arms.

We are in no way connected with either of said industries, but like to see everybody dealt with squarely, and are also for the health and welfare of the poorer class who make use of these stations.

PROHIBITION STRAW VOTE UNDER WAY AT BADGER UNIVERSITY

Referendum Conducted by University Commerce Magazine
Covers Subject Completely

MADISON, Wis.—A straw vote on the wet and dry question, more complete than that conducted by the Literary Digest, is now being made among students of the University of Wisconsin by the Commerce Magazine. The result of this poll will be made public on October 24. Following are the six questions which the students of the university are asked to answer:

1. Are you an "absolute dry"?
2. Are you for light wines and beer?
3. Do you think enforcement of prohibition should be more drastic?
4. Would you, whether wet, or dry, or indifferent, give information against "moonshine"?
5. (For women) In general, do you approve of a partner who sometimes has a "breath"?
6. (For men) Do you approve of an occasional "stag party" with "moonshine trimmings"?
7. Do you think the university "wetter" than your home town? General remarks.

All students of the university participate in this vote. A separate check will be kept, however, which will dispose the sentiments of the women students as independent from the men. The Commerce Magazine in which this poll will be published, is a student publication.

The editors of the Commerce Magazine, says this official statement issued today, "believe that an unbiased opinion on the vital national problem of prohibition by the students of one of our most representative universities, the University of Wisconsin, shall be of great interest to the people of Wisconsin and of the nation. Without prejudice on either side, the results of this vote are to be compiled into an article setting forth the verdict of Wisconsin on prohibition."

STOUT INSTITUTE SHOWS GOOD GAIN IN ENROLLMENT

MADISON, Wis.—The enrollment of Stout Institute, Menominee, Wis., has jumped to 537 this year, according to enrollment figures just published. This is an increase from 465 last year and from 354 in 1920.

The state school for training teachers of industrial education has greatly increased in its importance as indicated by enrolling figures.

MOVIES

"HUMAN HEARTS"—RIVOLI
"Human Hearts" is a pictorial analysis of life's greatest experience, Love. It is the production, filmed from the famous old play by Hal Red, and now at the Rivoli Theater. Its star is House Peters and the cast supporting him includes such eminent artists as Russell Simpson, George Hackathorne, Mary Philbin, Edith Haller, Gertrude Claire, Ramsey Wallace, Suits Edwards, H. S. Karr, Gene Dawson, Lucretia Harris, George W. West and Emmett King. The man who directed it played the leading role in the first picture version of eight years ago. He is King Baggot, formerly an idol of feminine hearts on the screen.

"Human Hearts" was at one time the wonder of the stage. It had more road shows going at once than any other place. For a decade it ruled in the field of melodrama.

RIVIERA TODAY

Viola Dana never appeared in a more amusing role than she does in "The Five Dollar Baby," the new Metro photoplay now at the Riviera theater.

Mr. Cobb's story is placed in New York's Ghetto. It is a startlingly faithful reproduction of this famous quarter of the metropolis, and the characters which take part in it are all clear-cut and carefully drawn types.

Miss Dana appears in the role of a girl who has been reared from infancy by a Jewish pawnbroker, Uncle Ben. She is shown at two periods of her life. First she appears as a girl of thirteen, continually in mischief and always indulging in tomboy pranks. Later after her return from boarding school, she is seen as a charming miss, with a vivacious personality. The story concerns the tribulations of the pawnbroker and his ward, whom he calls Ruth.

"SNOWBLIND"—MAJESTIC

Mary Alden, who plays the part of a mistreated housekeeper in "Snowblind," closing today at the Majestic Theater, has had considerable experience in this type of characterization. As Bella, in this Reginald Barker production, Miss Alden is called upon to take all sorts of abuse from Hugh Garth (Russell Simpson), the brutal fugitive murderer in the drama. Miss Alden has played these parts so often that when she is called upon by a producer, she says that she just picks up her coat and apron and make-up and is ready to go on. Miss Alden has cooked for most of the famous photoplay actors.

Tonight is the last performance of "Skirts and Flirts" by the Martin Footlight Follies troupe. A new musical comedy will open Thursday.

STRAND TODAY

Various are the reasons for changing one's name to go on the stage. Years ago, a blonde young girl named Louise Berlin, had a unique reason for changing hers to one that you now know very well. This girl, having played a season of small-time vaudeville, walked into the Chicago office of Paul Dresser, then a famous composer and music-publisher, to get several orchestrations. Mr. Dresser questioned her, and she learned that her father, then dead, had been a benefactor of Paul Dresser. The latter, prosperous and influential in his field, picked up the phone and talked to the best-known vaudeville agent in Chicago. "I'm sending my sister over to you," he said, "and I want her to have her big chance." So this actress, of seventeen years, waited out of the office as Louise Dresser, and began to climb to her present place as a comedienne of the American stage. She plays an important role in "Burning Sands," George Melford's new Paramount production, in which Wanda Hawley and Milton Sills are featured and which will be a feature at the Strand theater tonight. Jacqueline Logan and Robert Cain are leading members of the company.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Advances in price here and abroad, and the fact that after several quotations Wednesday morning failed to reflect fully the above-mentioned conditions, resulted in a return to the market for a time, but owing to hesitation here and there the opening, which ranged from 2 1/2 to 3 1/2, was followed by a general decline and then by a steady advance until around 4 1/2.

In subsequent dealings wheat fluctuated rapidly within a range of 4 1/2 to 5 1/2, and the market was active, on both sides of the market. Selling developed on the buigas but support developed on the export.

Export buying of corn helped lift the value of that grain despite initial weakness. The bulk of the export crop, which price record for the 1922-23 crop. After opening 3 1/2 to 4 1/2, December 6 to 10, and then 4 1/2 to 5 1/2, it then made a decided general upturn.

Including a reduction in the Italian crop, it was estimated that the world shortage of corn this season would be

NEW PRESIDENT OF STOUT SOON TO BE NAMED BY BOARD

Return of Hambrecht to be Followed by Meeting of Vocational Education Chiefs

CALLAHAN IS SUGGESTED AS A SUCCESSOR TO HARVEY

Blaine Would Fill Resulting Vacancy in Superintendency

MADISON, Wis.—The return of George Hambrecht, director of vocational education and of F. W. Schultz, president of the state board of vocational education, from an extensive European trip to study continuation school methods, will bring a meeting of the state vocational board some time in November to select a successor to L. D. Harvey as president of Stout institute.

This board action will be of considerable import to Wisconsin education because of the likelihood of the selection of John Callahan, superintendent of public instruction, for the position. Mr. Callahan is known to be willing to take the presidency of Stout and to be the board's first choice.

A vacancy in the office of superintendent of public instruction would result, with the appointment of a successor to Mr. Callahan to be made by Governor J. J. Blaine. Conrad Patzer, supervisor of practice at the Milwaukee Normal school, is mentioned as the most likely appointee of the governor should a vacancy occur. Another prospective superintendent would be Carol G. Pearce, president of the Milwaukee Normal school.

The board of vocational education is known to want a superintendent of public instruction who is favorable toward the continuation school movement and in sympathy with the program of industrial education being carried out in the state. Governor Blaine and Senator La Follette are looking for control of the board of regents of the University of Wisconsin, and it is believed likely, would select someone who would support their proposals as a member of the university board.

The superintendent of public instruction, although an ex-officio member of the directing body of the university, possesses a full vote. If the office should be open to appointment this year and an administration man named, control of the board would be almost within the hands of the governor.

County superintendents meeting here recently adopted a resolution urging Mr. Callahan to continue as superintendent of public instruction, whether offered the presidency of Stout or not.

This whole problem will probably be solved by action on the part of the board of vocational education shortly after the return of its president and Mr. Hambrecht.

Wisconsin Survey Gives Honors to Institutions for Scientific Care

BOSTON.—Hospital service to the public in Wisconsin has shown a marked advance in the past year, according to the fourth annual report of the American College of Surgeons released here today. This report is based on a survey which includes personal visits to each hospital of fifty beds or over in the United States and Canada. The following hospitals were given a place on the "approved" list:

Columbia Hospital, Milwaukee. Evangelical Deaconess Hospital, Milwaukee. Grandview Hospital, La Crosse. Holy Family Hospital, Manitowish. La Crosse Lutheran Hospital, La Crosse. La Crosse Public Hospital, La Crosse. Luther Hospital, Eau Claire. Madison General Hospital, Madison. Mercy Hospital, Janesville. Milwaukee Children's Hospital, Milwaukee. Milwaukee County Hospital, Milwaukee. Milwaukee Hospital, Milwaukee. Milwaukee Maternity and General Hospital, Milwaukee. Misericordia Hospital, Milwaukee. Mt. Sinai Hospital, Milwaukee. St. Agnes Hospital, Fond du Lac. St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Appleton. St. Francis Hospital, La Crosse. St. Joseph's Hospital, Dodgeville. St. Joseph's Hospital, Marshfield. St. Joseph's Hospital, Milwaukee. St. Mary's and Mercy Hospital, Oshkosh. St. Mary's Hospital, Green Bay. St. Mary's Hospital, Madison. St. Mary's Hospital, Milwaukee. St. Mary's Hospital, Racine. St. Mary's Hospital, Superior. Trinity Hospital, Milwaukee.

"The institutions listed above proved that they are giving the best scientific care to their patients," declared Dr. Franklin H. Martin, director-general of the American College of Surgeons. "Aided by one of the great educational foundations, we have carried on actual visits to hospitals, made by trained medical men who see working conditions as they are. For the first time this year we have surveyed hospitals of fifty beds capacity and up. These institutions as well as the larger hospitals show a marked improvement the country over and places Wisconsin in the forefront of states who are active in medical progress.

Wisconsin is to be congratulated on its splendid showing and on the medical men, hospital superintendents, and trustees who have made this advance possible."

Dandruff Surely Destroys The Hair

Girls—if you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It does no good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. Four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

TEMPORARY TEACHERS MUST CONTRIBUTE TO RETIREMENT FUND

MADISON.—Temporary teachers in Wisconsin schools, if their principal occupation is teaching, must submit to a five per cent deduction from the salaries to comply with provisions of the Wisconsin retirement fund law, the same as regular school instructors, R. M. Hoyt, deputy attorney general held to an opinion Wednesday to R. E. Loveland, secretary of the annuity board.

Presidents of the Superior and La Crosse normal schools had suggested that deductions from the salaries of temporary teachers be left with the board of normal regents for decision.

"In my opinion the retirement fund law lodges no discretion either with administrative boards who employ teachers or with any of the retirement boards to exempt any teacher
